Week Without Walls is Here!

China, Cambodia, Thailand, Madagascar, Australia, Malaysia, Ghana, Ethiopia.....

Week Without Walls is here and this afternoon the first set of busses will leave the back gate with excited students and their advisors who will be traveling to destinations all over the world. While many of our students and faculty members will be heading to the airport, many others will be remaining in Egypt to take part in a camel trek, a service project in Siwa, camping in the western desert or Beni Suef.

On the CAC campus, activities will abound. Again, the Sudanese refugee children will participate in an activity-based program that is organized and supervised by the high school students. Others will learn to knit and then donate their products to a local charity, while others will learn the skills of martial arts, and other students will be participating in a number of charity activities.

Whichever course your child is participating in, we hope the week opens up new challenges and new avenues for learning and provides excellent opportunities for them to connect with other students, sponsors and the local communities.

If you have any questions at any time during the Week Without Walls program please do not hesitate to call me at 012-313-9785.

High School Principal's Forum: February 5

The next high school community forum is on Tuesday, February 5, 2008 starting at 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Gallery. This is an open session for parents to gain information on various programs and for parents to ask questions that pertain to the high school. We hope that many parents will attend, and we look forward to seeing you there.

The Digla Dash Event

On Friday, February 8, the annual Mike Ross Digla Dash takes place. This is an opportunity to raise money for charity by walking/running in Waadi Digla. It's a family-friendly, fun and healthy activity for the weekend, and we hope that all members of our CAC community will get involved and support the event. There is a 2.5 kilometer course for younger children and a 5 and 10 kilometer course for older students and adults with a start-time of 11 a.m. at the race site (buses depart from the CAC front gates at 10 a.m.). Registration forms can be completed by visiting the CAC website, or you can call the Athletics Office at 2755-5417 for more information.
